City crews working on private property. It ain't new and it ain't the first time we complained. It often seems we are the only Elba citizen complaining ... we write about it, city hall folks get miffed with us, no one else complains openly and they continue with business as usual. But right now it is apparently going on wholesale! We keep getting more and more reports that the new dump truck is "hauling political fill dirt" at an accelerated pace. We don't expect to stop it this time either, but will advise all our readers ... if you need a favor from city work crews (load of dirt in the yard, tree cut, etc.), now is apparently the perfect time to call city hall and get a work order for your needs, or ask them W-H-Y N-O-T? But please don't tell them you read it in BRAINSTORMS - that will surely mean you don't get a share of the freebees ... you will probably only get a report of what a low down scoundrel we are for writing about the improper activities.

Most folks have read about or watched TV reports about the state trooper (not in Alabama) who was fired for the terrible way he treated a woman who was stopped on a routine traffic matter. We were appalled at what his official video showed. However, we salute the decision makers for terminating him for such actions and also for the professional way he was terminated. Initially, there was criticism that the man was not fired immediately. Then it was explained they were being careful to not violate HIS rights and thereby open the state to a wrongful termination lawsuit. Right there those folks got our wholehearted support! Government employees (at every level) can be fired, but they are humans and Americans ... and also have rights under our great form of government: "Of the people, By the people, For the people." Need we say anymore?

Some good things are being done by your city government. The new video cameras in patrol cars are great! They help all concerned. First, a camera will show supervisors an officer's action which needs improvement. Second, a camera will protect any offi-cer falsely accused of unprofessional and/or illegal actions. • Delaying hasty action on the new landfill is good. It has been in the works for years, in a long drawn out process, but proposed plans could save Elba folks a lot of money down the road. • Enhanced 911 is a good thing ... just dialing the number, even if you pass out before talking will get emergency response to you. It will also cut down on prank calls to police, fire and rescue units. Elba needs

The local bill to be introduced by Representative Garreth Moore which will change the way a jury is selected in Coffee County has gotten him some very harsh criticism with some county voters. We don't have the answers to all the world problems but do believe opponents of the proposal would have had a far better chance of getining his ear if they had tried a little and the stand are stand at the stand and the stand at the standard at the stand ting his ear if they had tried a little sweet talk before gathering (what came across as) the lynch mob. The bill probably doesn't have time to pass in this session, due to end-of-session log jam. But never fear, if that does happen, it will return at a later date.

Governor Fob James has publicly called Alabama legislators "trained seals." We are not in a position to agree or disagree with his description, but look at such talk when we predict log jams and for reckless driving, one for DUI, get pet bills out of committee and approved by fellow legislators.

Keep It Safe...

Right about now students from coast to coast are packing their bags and are heading for white and blue water. Yes, it's that time again--Spring Break! Time to forget about essays, projects, and books and begin concentrating on the important things in life: swimsuits, sunglasses, and parties! Each spring teenagers across the nation count the days until Spring Break's arrival. For many, it is the most enjoyable week of the year.

For some, however, it can and will be deadly.

Each year, thousands of students are killed during Spring Break because of drunk drivers. Not only are their lives to drunk drivers. Not only are their lives cause you probably would not matter, because you probably would not be alive to class you probably would not be alive to tell about it today. THE PRESSBOX

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

The kids are out of school this week for the AEA holidays and around the Mularz house it is a little quieter than usual due to the fact that one of the girls is spending the week in South Carolina with her aunt. Our young est little girl is enjoying all the attention that goes along with being an only child, but I think she misses big sister as much as Mom and Dad do, and will admit it seems a little lonely. I for one will be glad when the fussing returns and both the girls are at home, where they belong.

The Lady Tigers also struggled in the field in the tourney, committing 23 errors in the losses, and allowing far too many un-earned runs. MRS. WALKER'S GIFTED CLASS PRESENTS PLAY...Mrs. Walker's 4th through 6th grade gifted class presented the play, "America: Past and Present", on Tuesday, February 27th. This musical production, which depicted the history of the United States from Columbus's discovery of America through the present, was presented to the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades on the stage of the elementary school cafeteria. The following students gave delightful performances as narrators and historical figures: Bart Barnes (Abe Lincoln/Christopher Columbus), Blake Brunson (Jeb/Mrs. Fisher), Rush Brunson (Thomas Jefferson), Austin Boothe (Daniel Boone), Brittany Daniels (Clara), Katie Dyess (Alice), Christy Eubanks (Betsy Ross), Joseph Falls (Herman), Roshonda Flowers (Frederick Douglass), Wesley Kelley (Ben Franklin), Evan Maddox (George Washington).

U.S. HISTORY PROJECTS EXHIBITED...Mrs. Traci Johnson's fifth graders recently exhibited their talents in the Elba Elementary School cafeteria. More than a dozen of these projects were displayed for the education and enjoyment of all the elementary school students. The following students are pictured with their projects: Devri Kilcrease, April Burks, Kesia Blenn, Katrina Farris, Darren Dawkins, Joseph Falls, Jeremy Carnley, Deann Smith, Brandon Petty, Scott Orr, Cherrelle Edwards, Chrystal Frost, and Mandrell Carpenter.
